Community Clinic and Rogers School District Announce New Health Partnership

Partnership expands access to medical and behavioral health care for the Rogers community, anchored by a new primary & urgent care clinic at Rogers Heritage High School

ROGERS, Ark. — July 15, 2026 — Community Clinic and Rogers School District today announced a new partnership that brings expanded access to medical and behavioral health care to the Rogers community through the opening of a new clinic at Rogers Heritage High School. The partnership reflects a shared commitment to supporting the health of the community.

"This partnership is a great example of what Community Clinic is all about — showing up for people right where they are," said Judd Semingson, President & CEO, Community Clinic. "At Rogers Heritage, that means bringing not just primary and urgent care, but mental health support, into a place families already know and trust. We're proud to stand alongside Rogers School District in this work."

“We are extremely excited about the partnership we have created with Community Clinic. We believe this clinic will be a tremendous and valuable resource for our students, staff, and the broader community. Having a clinic within our district will provide greater access to quality health care and is one more way Rogers Public Schools can help meet the needs of the community we serve,” said Dr. Jeff Perry, Superintendent of Rogers Public Schools.

A New Clinic, Open to Everyone

The clinic at Rogers Heritage High School will offer primary and urgent care, along with Behavioral Health services. This marks the first time Community Clinic has introduced Behavioral Health to one of its in-school locations, reinforcing its commitment to whole-person care, including mental health. While located inside the high school, the clinic is open to everyone: students, families, and all members of the public are welcome to receive care there, year-round, including summer break.

Community Clinic will celebrate the new partnership and the clinic's opening with a public open house and ribbon cutting on July 29.
